

We're Engaged!

Dear Family and Friends,

We are thrilled to share the joyful news of our engagement! On a beautiful spring afternoon at our favorite park, surrounded by the blooming flowers, John got down on one knee and asked me to be his forever. I still remember the look on his face--filled with love and a touch of nervousness!

As many of you know, we first met in college during a group project. Who would have thought that late-night study sessions would lead to this moment? From our first date at that little Italian restaurant to our countless adventures hiking, every moment together makes me more excited for our future.

We can't wait to celebrate this next chapter with all of you! We are planning a small gathering in the coming weeks and will share more details soon.

With love,
Emily & John
