

Open Source Software Contribution Guidance

Dear [Contributor's Name],

Thank you for your interest in contributing to our open-source project, [Project Name]. We greatly appreciate your willingness to help improve our software and community.

Getting Started

1. Familiarize yourself with the project by reading the documentation.
2. Review our contribution guidelines to understand our coding standards and submission process.
3. Join our community chat on [Platform Name] for discussions and assistance.

Choosing a Contribution

Please check our issue tracker for open issues where you can contribute. Look for tags such as good first issue or help wanted.

Submitting Your Contribution

When ready to submit, please follow these steps:

1. Fork the repository and make your changes in a new branch.
2. Ensure your code follows our coding conventions.
3. Write clear commit messages and provide a comprehensive pull request description.

Feedback and Revisions

After submission, project maintainers will review your contribution. Be prepared to make revisions based on feedback.

We are excited to have you as part of our community and look forward to your contributions!

Best Regards,
