As a long-time customer, I have always appreciated your commitment to [mention any positive value of the company]. However, the recent ads have not only disappointed me but also raised concerns among various community groups. [Provide specific examples or details about the advertisements].

I urge you to reconsider these portrayals and strive for more positive and inclusive messaging in your advertising efforts. It is essential that brands like yours lead by example and promote understanding and respect.

Thank you for your attention to this matter. I hope to see a change in your advertising strategy moving forward.

Sincerely,
