

Dear [Editor's Name],

I hope this message finds you well. I am writing to submit a revised version of my manuscript titled "[Manuscript Title]" (Manuscript ID: [ID Number]) for your consideration.

In response to the reviewers' insightful comments, we have made several significant methodological changes that we believe enhance the robustness of our findings:

- We have altered our sample selection criteria to ensure a more representative population, specifically...
- A new statistical analysis technique was employed, replacing the previous method, which allows for...
- We introduced additional controls to account for potential confounding variables, particularly...

These revisions have been outlined in detail in the accompanying response to reviewers document, where we address each comment provided.

Thank you for your consideration of our manuscript. We look forward to your feedback.

Sincerely,
