

Inquiry for Translation Opportunities in Literary Works

Dear [Recipient's Name],

I hope this message finds you well. My name is [Your Name], and I am a professional translator with a passion for literary works. I am reaching out to inquire about any potential translation opportunities that your esteemed publishing house may have for upcoming or existing literary pieces.

With a background in [Your Language Pair] translation and a particular interest in [specific genres or authors], I believe I could contribute significantly to bringing captivating stories to a wider audience. I am keen to collaborate with publishers who appreciate the nuances and artistry involved in translating literature.

If you have any projects in need of a translator or if you are open to discussing potential opportunities, I would be grateful for the chance to connect. Thank you for considering my inquiry, and I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
