Dear [Recipient's Name],

I hope this letter finds you well. I am writing to propose an exciting opportunity regarding my children's book titled [Book Title]. I believe that this enchanting story has great potential for serialization, which can captivate young readers over an extended period.

The book follows [brief description of the story and main characters], which resonates well with children ages [age range]. I envision this serialized format not only bringing joy and engagement to children but also providing an excellent platform for discussions among parents and educators.

With this letter, I would like to formally offer the serialization rights for [Book Title] to [Recipient's Company]. I believe your platform is ideally suited to reach our target audience effectively.

Should you be interested, I would love to discuss this proposal further and explore the various terms and conditions that could benefit both parties. Thank you for considering this opportunity, and I look forward to your positive response.

Warm regards,
