Dear [Recipient's Name],

I hope this letter finds you well. I am writing to propose mediation as a means to resolve our ongoing property conflict concerning [briefly describe the nature of the conflict]. It has become clear that our differences have created a challenging situation, and I believe that mediation could provide a constructive path forward.

Mediation offers us the opportunity to engage in open dialogue in a neutral environment, with the help of an experienced mediator. The goal would be to reach a mutually satisfactory agreement while preserving our relationship.

I suggest that we consider a few potential dates for our mediation session and select a mediator who we both feel comfortable with. Please let me know your thoughts on this proposal and your availability for a meeting to discuss it further.

Thank you for considering this idea. I look forward to your prompt response.

Best regards,
