Dear [Partner's Name],

As we prepare for our upcoming marriage, I believe it is essential for us to consider a prenuptial agreement. This important document can provide us with legal protection and clarity regarding our financial responsibilities, assets, and potential liabilities. Below are some key considerations for our prenuptial agreement:

- Definition of Separate and Marital Property: Clearly outline which assets are considered separate and which will be classified as marital property.
- Debt Responsibility: Establish guidelines for handling debts incurred before and during the marriage.
- Financial Responsibilities: Clarify our respective financial obligations during the marriage.
- Division of Assets: Specify how assets will be divided in the event of divorce or separation.
- Alimony or Spousal Support: Discuss whether spousal support will be included in the agreement and under what circumstances.
- Decision-Making Authority: Outline how major financial decisions will be made during our marriage.
- Inheritance Rights: Address how inheritance will be treated in the event of death or divorce.

I suggest we consult with legal professionals to ensure that our agreement meets all legal requirements and reflects our intentions accurately. I'm confident that creating a prenuptial agreement will strengthen our relationship by fostering open communication about our financial future.

Looking forward to discussing this further.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
