

Invitation to Renegotiate Reselling Prices

Dear [Recipient's Name],

I hope this message finds you well. We appreciate our ongoing partnership and the mutual benefits we have enjoyed.

In light of recent market trends and changes in our cost structure, we would like to propose a meeting to discuss the possibility of renegotiating the reselling prices of our products. We believe this conversation is essential for both parties to align our business objectives and ensure continued success.

We would be grateful if you could suggest a convenient time for you to discuss this matter further. We are confident that together we can arrive at a favorable agreement.

Thank you for considering our request. We look forward to hearing from you soon.

Best regards,
