Dear [Recipient's Name],

I hope this letter finds you well. I am writing to express my concern about the limited access to public Wi-Fi hotspots within our community. In today's digital age, reliable internet access is essential for all residents, especially for students, remote workers, and those seeking employment opportunities.

Currently, we have only a few hotspots in high-traffic areas, which do not adequately serve our community's needs. I kindly request that you consider increasing the number of public Wi-Fi hotspots in key community areas such as parks, libraries, and community centers. This would not only enhance connectivity but also support local businesses and promote digital inclusion.

Thank you for considering this request. I look forward to your positive response and am happy to discuss this matter further.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
