As technology advances and the landscape of education continues to evolve, it is crucial that our faculty are equipped with the necessary tools and strategies to effectively engage students in an online environment.

The objectives of this proposal are as follows:

- To foster collaborative learning among faculty members through workshops and peer feedback sessions.

We propose a series of workshops and online resources that will cover topics such as:

- Best practices for online course design.
- Engaging students through interactive technologies.
- Assessment strategies in online learning.

The expected outcomes of this initiative include improved faculty confidence in online teaching and increased student satisfaction and engagement. We believe this proposal aligns with our institution's commitment to academic excellence and innovation.
