Contribution Guidelines for Open-Source Initiatives

Dear Contributor,

Thank you for your interest in contributing to our open-source project! To ensure a smooth collaboration, please adhere to the following guidelines:

1. Code of Conduct

All contributors are expected to follow our Code of Conduct to maintain a respectful and inclusive environment.

2. How to Contribute

- Fork the repository.
- Create your feature branch: `git checkout -b feature/YourFeature`
- Commit your changes: `git commit -m 'Add some feature'`
- Push to the branch: `git push origin feature/YourFeature`
- Open a pull request.

3. Commit Message Guidelines

Your commit messages should be clear and descriptive, following this format:

- Use the imperative mood.
- Limit the first line to 50 characters.
- Reference any issues using #issue_number.

4. Code Review Process

All pull requests will be reviewed by the maintainers and feedback will be provided. Please be open to changes and discussions regarding your contributions.

5. License

By contributing to this project, you agree that your contributions will be licensed under the project's License.

Thank you for your contributions and support for our open-source initiative!

Best regards,
Your Project Team
