

Subject: Appeal for More Interactive Online Sessions

Dear [Recipient's Name],

I hope this message finds you well. I am writing to formally request an increase in the number of interactive online sessions in our current program. As we navigate this digital learning environment, engaging and interactive sessions have proven to significantly enhance our understanding and retention of the material.

The current format largely relies on lectures and presentations, which, while informative, can sometimes feel disconnected and lead to decreased participation. Incorporating more interactive elements such as live Q&A sessions, group discussions, and interactive polls could greatly benefit our learning experience.

Many of my peers share this sentiment, and we believe that fostering a more dynamic online classroom will not only boost our engagement but also improve overall outcomes. We would appreciate your consideration of this request, as we believe it aligns with the goals of our educational program.

Thank you for your time and attention to this matter. We look forward to your response.

Sincerely,
