

Dear [Client's Name],

I hope this message finds you well. I wanted to take a moment to express my gratitude for the opportunity to work with you on your property listing at [Property Address]. Although the listing has now expired, I truly appreciate the trust you placed in me during our collaboration.

Your insights and patience made our partnership enjoyable, and I value the experience gained throughout this process. While the outcome was not what we envisioned, I remain optimistic about the future and am here to assist you should you decide to re-engage the market or explore new opportunities.

Thank you once again for your collaboration. Please feel free to reach out if you have any questions or if there's anything I can do for you moving forward.

Warm regards,
